A young rider eyes the camera with a glare as she takes her round on the merry-go-round at the Minden Rotary Carnival last week.

Race starts early for council seats

With November municipal elections still three months away, some Minden area politicians are already contemplating their political futures.

No politician likes to speak too soon about his or her ambitions; there are always fears that a council may not work effectively while one member sees another as a potential threat to his job. But most political decisions become grist for the rumour mill long before any official announcements are made, so when The Times conducted a poll of Minden councillors this week, an early picture of what November might hold in store for voters emerged.

Of those councillors already sitting on Minden council, some were hesitant to disclose plans, while others were more outspoken about their goals.

Reeve Lloyd Walker is not definite about running again in the fall, but he feels the chances are good. "The November election is a long way off yet and I haven't really decided on whether I'll be running for another term or not. From what I can see now though, I expect I will be," Walker says. As for his council's performance so far, Walker says that he is pleased. "We have our good days and our bad days, but I feel satisfied with what we've accomplished and I'd like to accomplish more."

Before being elected reeve of Minden, Walker sat on Lutterworth council for 12 years, serving as deputy reeve, which was an experience that he feels prepared him for his job in Minden. "I've had 12 years of experience before starting in Minden, so I knew what I was getting into," Walker comments. "It's just on a bigger scale in Minden; you are overseeing three townships instead of one."

Three new faces

Minden's present deputy-reeve, Doug Pritchard, is another man of considerable experience in municipal politics. First elected to council 14 years ago, Pritchard has acted as deputy-reeve for the past 12 years and he'll be seeking the seat again in November. "As far as I know, I'll be running for deputy reeve in the fall," Pritchard says.

Pritchard will be challenged in November by Councillor Ed. Pergolas. Pergolas was elected to Minden council for the first time in 1980 by a narrow margin. After two years as a councillor, Pergolas is now preparing to run for deputy reeve. "The deputy reeve sits on county council and I think representation there is very important, that is one reason I'm after the position," Pergolas explains. "The county takes a lot of our tax dollars and it's important to know how they are being spent," he adds.

Councillor Lyle McKnight has reached a decision to run for reeve. "I've been on Minden council now for six years," McKnight says, "and I think I have the experience to take on the reeve's job. There are some things I'd like to do as reeve that haven't been done yet, and I think it's time they were tried." McKnight says he has business commitments to iron out before he sets his mind on running in November, but he is positive that it is the position of reeve he will be after. "I feel right now that I'm going to run for reeve or not at all," McKnight says.

Councillor Larry Cummins has not decided whether or not to run for a second term on Minden council. "I don't want to say at this point whether or not I'll be running. I think it's early yet and a lot can happen in the next few months that may affect my decision," Cummins says.

Newcomers

There will be at least three new faces in the coming election and the men to whom they belong are not keeping their plans secret. Gary

Smooth sailing for Bicroft

The Improvement District of Bicroft, which is in the process of assuming full township status, moved a significant step closer to its goal last week. The deadline for objections to Bicroft's application passed July 28 and with no objections received, officials expect that full township status will be conferred by the Ontario Municipal Board in only eight weeks.

The request for township status was the result of a public forum on the subject held June 15 in Bicroft. While some residents were hesitant about the move then, the general consensus was positive towards the move, so Bicroft's three member Board of Trustees went ahead and requested the OMB to grant the Improvement District full township status. Now that no official objections have been registered with the OMB, it seems likely that Bicroft will come of age in early September, in time for municipal elections to be held there this fall.

"I was pleased not to see any objections to the move," Bicroft Board of Trustees chairman Bill Howe told The Times in an interview Tuesday. "I can't see any reason for a delay now, so it looks now as though we'll be ready to elect a municipal council in November," he said. As an Improvement District, Bicroft has been governed by a board of trustees, who are appointed by the provincial government, since it was created in 1958.

A municipal council will allow Bicroft to take full control of the tax base, form a budget and make expenditures without approval from the Ministry of Municipal Affairs, as is currently the case.

Bicroft was originally designated an Improvement

District by the province in 1958, in order to give residents autonomy to provide for the opening of the Bicroft mine, which closed in 1964. The community of 700, situated in the south-easternmost part of the county, has since thrived and now has a population which allows it to assume township status under provincial legislation.

The new status for Bicroft has also been hailed as an important step towards the move to drop "Provisional" from the county title, an issue currently under debate at county council.

Kenney has already announced publicly that he will be seeking a seat on council. Kenney has been in the Highlands for seven years as owner and operator of the Blairhampton Alternative Resource, a company specialising in log home building. Kenney has an extensive background in the sale and marketing of industrial systems, experience he plans to use towards improvements for the townships. "We desperately need more aggressive lobbying tactics down south where the money is coming from," Kenney says. "Councils haven't tried to co-ordinate and amalgamate the people and resources that are available to them. We're losing tens of thousands of dollars each year because there is no planning or foresight," Kenney explains.

Dave Stevens, owner of the Beaverbrook Golf Club, has also announced his intention to seek a seat on council in the fall. Stevens describes growth for Minden as his "chief concern": "It seems to me that right now the town of Minden is going backwards," Stevens says. "Taking a stand against progress is the old way of doing things, but we've been sitting back too long, thinking the old way is good enough. I don't think it is good enough anymore." Stevens adds that his ten years as a successful business operator in Minden have shown him what can be achieved for the town.

Mike Kitchman will be the third man to venture into the political arena in Minden for the first time this fall. Kitchman has been coming to the Highlands regularly for ten years and he has recently made Minden his permanent home. In Toronto, he worked extensively for the federal government, experience he plans to use towards municipal politics if he is successful in his bid for a seat on council.

Other townships

In neighbouring townships some veterans of municipal politics have already decided to make this term of office their last. Stanhope reeve Jim Harrison, who has held the reeve's seat for four of his fourteen years on council, will not be running in November. "I've already informed people in my township that I won't be running. Municipal politics takes up a lot of my time and I've got to look after my bread and butter now," Harrison says.

Dysart reeve Murray Fearrey is also preparing to retire this fall. Although he has not made a "formal decision" not to run, Fearrey feels he will step down if he is pleased with the field in November. "If there's enough interest from capable people, I won't be running in the fall," Fearrey says. "I want to wait and see, but if I'm satisfied with the people standing for office, I'm prepared to retire." Fearrey has been in municipal politics for the past eleven years and reeve of Dysart since 1975.

In Lutterworth, reeve and county warden Ron Gambell is not definite about election plans, but he has decided not to run in Lutterworth. "I'm not intending to run in Lutterworth," Gambell says, "but I haven't decided yet on the possibility of running elsewhere." Gambell was first elected to Lutterworth council in 1975, and over his past three terms as reeve he feels the township has come a long way. "Lutterworth is in good shape right now and I'm satisfied that the council there now can carry it. We've come a long way in Lutterworth and I wouldn't leave the township if I didn't feel it was in good hands," Gambell says.

Local golfer discovers the pressure of the pro circuit

When Keith Stephenson teed off in the Canadian Pro-Am round of the Canadian Open last week, he was expecting a good round of golf. What he got was a lesson in playing under pressure with one of the all-time greats of golf, Jack Nicklaus.

Stephenson, who owns and operates the Haliburton Highlands Golf Course on Lake Kashagawigamog, drew Nicklaus as a partner for the Pro-Am round after winning a $1600 ticket to play in the tournament at a raffle in Orillia. Stephenson, Nicklaus and two others teed off last Wednesday afternoon on a wet Glen Abbey course in Oakville after being delayed an hour because of rain. More than just superlative talent gave Nicklaus an edge in Wednesday's round; he designed the Glen Abbey course himself.

The day's results were not exactly as Stephenson might have hoped. "As a team we didn't play that well. Nicklaus was having trouble with his game and I think the crowd had a big effect on all of us. It was really overwhelming," Stephenson remarks of his Pro-Am round. The four-some's final score of 7-under was not enough to touch the winning round of 18-under turned in by Johnny Miller and partners.

The gallery pressure is what amazed Stephenson most about professional circuit play. "So many people follow Nicklaus around that it's quite unbelievable," Stephenson recounted from the comfort of the Highlands club house Monday afternoon. "It's part of the idea behind the Pro-Am round. The crowd can move right up on the golfers, and so after every shot Jack was swarmed with autograph seekers and photographers. The gallery is very difficult for him to deal with because they crowd him so much; they don't give him time even to think. He really doesn't have one second to himself the entire round." And the crowds, of course, bring a certain pressure to bear on the amateurs as well. "With thousands of people lining both sides of the fairway for every drive, and swarming around the tees and the greens, there has to be a certain amount of pressure on any golfer," Stephenson explains.

Despite the crowds, though, Stephenson remembers Nicklaus as a model partner. "He's a great guy to play with; very amiable and helpful, and despite the pressure around him he still manages to joke with the gallery throughout the round. Playing with him was a really great experience, one I'll never forget," Stephenson says.

As for watching Nicklaus in action from such close range, Stephenson is still amazed at what he saw. "He hit some golf balls that made me shake my head. The contact and the control he has is absolutely sensational."

Over 200 competitors took part in Thursday's running of the tenth annual Heineken Yard footrace. Runners from camps, cottages, and residences throughout the area gathered at Camp Onondaga for the start of the 7.2 km race. Despite the intense afternoon heat, the winning time was only three seconds off last year's winning time.

Runner misses Heineken mark by 3 seconds

Three seconds separated the winning times of this year's first place finisher in the Heineken Yard and the top time of last year. Phil Pyatt led the field of 240 runners Thursday to finish the 7.2 kilometre race in a time of 22 minutes and 59 seconds. Trevor Shand ran the course last year in 22:56.

Pyatt was the only runner to come close to last year's time as participants in all other categories were up to two minutes off the pace.

Also of interest this year were two camp entries in which teams of runners carried two canoes the full length of course. It will be a portage that will no doubt remain in their memories for many years to come.

Harold Hoefle placed second in the race with a time of 23:12 while Peter Pim was third overall with a time of 24:02. These two, along with Phil Pyatt also claimed the 1-2-3 positions in the open men's category.

The following are the remainder of the top ten finishers, starting with fourth place: Greg Hare 25:02; Brad Savage 25:51; Jamie Wallace 26:02; John McCallum 26:09; Scott Rae 27:09; Andy Ring 27:18; and Kirk Lynn 27:25.

In the open ladies division: Jane Savage 30:22; Christine McLean 31:20; Marg Carlton of Calgary 34:31. The best time last year went to Janet D'Arcy at 28:17.

In the master men's category: Barry Moeser 28:15; Jack Webb, who is 63 years of age, 29:26; and Siegfried Finke 29:39. The best time last year was turned in by Robert Moore 23:36.

Master women's: Marion Strebig 32:45; Ann Ellis of Vancouver 35:39; Celestine McCormick 37:49. The best time last year, Marion Strebig 34:45.

Junior men's: Brad Savage 25:51; Scott Rae 27:09; Kirk Lynn 27:25. The best time last year was J. Castellara at 23:25.

Junior women's: Kerith Waddington 30:44; Nancy Crump 34:06; Deidre Hamaguchi 34:26. The 1981 time was from Janet D'Arcy at 28:17.

(Also participating in the race were The Times team of David Swail and Tom Lyttle. While they were back in the pack, both finished the 7.2 km course in good shape. Congratulations to these two runners and all others who took part.)

Enjoying the summer

As summer turns the corner into August the Haliburton Highlands finds itself in the midst of community carnivals and festivals. It seems each week some organization or community is holding a special event. At this time of the year the pace is particularly frantic.

The celebrations represent a number of positive features of life in the Highlands. First of all they provide entertainment and diversion for area residents. There is nothing more pleasant than letting the fun of carnival temporarily at least, push the cares of the world into the background. Parades, thrilling rides, games of chance are all a part of the day's fun.

The festivals also provide forums for conviviality as old friends have a chance to meet again and seasonal residents mix with those with more permanent roots in the community. The social benefits of these gatherings are not to be underestimated. They give a sense of belonging to an area and group of individuals who might otherwise feel they are strangers in their own community.

The events are also important fund raisers. In most communities the festivities are sponsored by a service organization whose members donate their time and efforts for the betterment of the community as a whole. More often than not, the profits earned at these carnivals are returned to the area in the form of improvements to local recreational, educational and cultural facilities. For these organizations these celebrations often form the most important source of income. They rely on the profits to sustain and expand their efforts.

So, add to your enjoyment of the summer. Take in a couple of the community festivals - let your hair down - relax - meet your neighbours - make new friends - help your community to expand and grow. Enjoy, enjoy.

The silent majority

The residents of the Improvement District of Bicroft have spoken with their silence.

The area, in its first major step towards full municipal status, has asked for objections from residents to the move. The period for registering disapproval with the idea has passed and Improvement District Chairman Bill Howe reports that not one voice of dissent was heard.

The silent endorsement is a strong indication we feel of how eager the Improvement District's residents are to gain full township status. The change, and it is expected to occur before this fall's municipal election, will extend important civil rights to area residents. It will also expand local control over the area's future.

We are sure other residents of the county are equally eager to welcome the newest township into the Haliburton municipal scene.

Carnival fun

Since childhood, most of us have been warned against the evils of indiscriminately picking wildflowers, since picking the bloom often kills the plant. But for many species, other threats pose a much greater danger. Take for example the small white lady's

Fish still protected

Tim Millard, District Manager of Algonquin Park District, announced that an omission has occurred in the 1982 Summary of the Fishing Regulations. Crystal Lake, a year round fishing sanctuary located in Lawrence Township of the District of Minden was not identified as such in the public summary. In fact, the lake continues to be a sanctuary where angling is prohibited.

Situated within Algonquin Provincial Park, Crystal Lake is used by the staff of the Harkness Fisheries Research Laboratory in their program to evaluate the relative effectiveness of stocking various strains of brook trout and splake. Mr. Millard stated that the work of project leader Jim Fraser has provincial significance in determining fish stocking systems that will provide the most effective return to Ontario anglers.

slipper, one of Ontario's endangered plants.

As the name suggests, this orchid is fairly small, standing only 20 - 36 cm high, and its white blossoms resemble a lady's slipper, with a prominent egg-shaped pouch. A few purple streaks on the flower serve to attract small bees, which in the process of crawling through the small tunnels leading to the nectar, exchange the pollen that pollinates each flower. Small white lady's slippers are flowers of the wet prairie, and it is because of this habitat that it is now so rare.

First of all, wet prairie is generally sought for agriculture, or sometimes for urbanization, resulting in the loss of this habitat. Even in its natural state, however, prairie needs fire to regenerate itself. With modern fire control, former prairie areas are growing over in shrubs and small trees which shade out the orchids.

Because of these twin pressures, small white lady's slippers have drastically declined across all of their range. In Norfolk County in southwestern Ontario, over 100 known clumps of plants in 1920 had dwindled to only a few individual plants by 1975. Since then the flower has disappeared from the county. In all of Canada, the flower only grows in six places, of which only two are in Ontario.

The steps needed to save this species seem obvious - protect the few remaining pieces of habitat, and use prescribed burns where necessary to manage the habitat for the orchid and the related prairie plants. But unless there is a broad level of public support for endangered species, government funding for even these simple steps is unlikely.

Editor:

With summer in full force and many fruits and vegetables ripening in the area I was once again witness to individuals picking berries along areas that were previously sprayed by both the Ministry of Transportation and Communications and Ontario Hydro.

The spray used by these people (probably 2,4,D), is like most herbicides, highly toxic.

The fact that herbicides are absorbed by the plant and remain in it are the properties that insure the plants' eventual destruction. Whether or not the plant was sprayed in the same year that the berries were picked may have little or no bearing on its toxicity.

People exposed to 2,4,D may develop fatigue, nausea, vomiting, loss of appetite, diarrhea, swelling and aching of muscles, muscle tremors, blurred vision, headaches and skin rashes.

Our committee advises everyone not to pick or eat berries or to walk through areas that have been sprayed with any herbicide. This includes road allowances and under hydro lines.

While the amount of produce might have been limited Saturday morning at the first Haliburton County Farmers' Market, the number of buyers more than exceeded the organizers' expectations. Supplies of new potatoes, beans, beets, eggs, home baking and maple syrup were snapped up by eager buyers who arrived well before the nine o'clock opening. Local farmers were pleased with the results of the day and additional markets are planned every Saturday morning next to the Minden Firehall.

Ladies begin playoffs

Play-off action in the Ladies' Softball League began last week, and it looks like two very competitive series are in store for softball fans.

The Haliburton ladies team, which finished regular season play on top of the league with 30 points, took on the West Guilford team Monday in Haliburton. West Guilford finished in a tie for second place with Minden Dixie Lee, and they gave the Haliburton team a run for their money in the first of the best of five series before bowing 11-10.

Haliburton had a strong advantage going into the seventh inning, leading West Guilford by a score of 11-3. Bethany and Linda Sisson led West Guilford in a seven-run rally, however, and they drew the visiting team to within one run of tying. Haliburton held on, however, to take the game by a single run.

Nancy Maughan, Wendy Roberts and Marla McNaull all had a good night at the plate for Haliburton, with Nancy Maughan pitching the winner for Haliburton. Joan McKay was the losing pitcher for West Guilford.

In other playoff action, the Minden Dixie Lee team won their first game of a best of five series against the Minden Juniors by the same score of 11-10.

Sue Lehn, Marg Fielding and Helen Burk were strong at the plate for Dixie Lee, while Cheryl Dillon and Darlene Pettis played well for the Juniors. Anne Hewson and Nelda Culley combined to pitch the winner for Dixie Lee. Andrea Burk was on the losing end for the Juniors.

Wilberforce and Carnarvon, who finished fifth and sixth respectively in regular season play, began their five game series for the Ben Matthews Memorial Trophy Thursday night in Wilberforce. The game was not as closely fought as others in playoff action. Wilberforce tamed the Carnarvon club by a score of 22-1.

Jo Olszewski was the big story for Wilberforce Thursday night. She was the winning pitcher and bashed out two home runs to lead the Wilberforce club. Teammates Cindy Ablett and Judy Barras were also strong at the plate for Wilberforce. Lil Gorveatt took the loss for Carnarvon.

Wilberforce and Carnarvon will face one another again tonight (August 4), while Haliburton plays West Guilford Thursday night in West Guilford. For a complete schedule of future playoff games, keep in touch with team members.

As we round the half way mark in this summer season we were experiencing capacity crowds everywhere this weekend. The travel counsellors were kept busy searching for last minute accommodation for many and had to disappoint quite a few. With many people making changes from their regular routines in holidays there were considerable numbers who were oblivious of the amount of pressure on accommodations over this part of the summer.

A busy long weekend does not, of course, make for a successful summer. Most operators do however report a good July and are optimistic about August. Late August still shows more than the usual amount of openings but with good weather this may still improve. Results from the recent C.O.T.A. full-page advertisement indicate there are still a large number of potential visitors who have yet to plan their holidays.

Stick with the professionals

The construction industry on the other hand has been very slow this year. Tradesmen are finding some renovation and repair work to keep them going but major projects are few and far between. Even those who have the funds with which to build or expand are not moving at the moment awaiting some favourable signs in the economy.

Tradesmen are also finding themselves being underbid for work by "moonlighters" or non-professionals. One cannot criticize any individual who has the initiative to go beyond his normal working parameters in order to make ends meet in this tight economy. We have, however, had several complaints about faulty workmanship recently, and in each case found it was performed by someone who was not professional at the trade involved. For your own protection, therefore, we advise that you stick with professionals who do this work for a livelihood.

The Chamber of Commerce Directory lists all the County tradesmen who are currently members of the Chamber and who we can recommend. If you would like any further assistance selecting the right person for your job give the Chamber a call at 286-1760.

New addition at Maple Sands

Not to the buildings - but to the family.

Chamber vice-president Curtis Eastmure, who is the Innkeeper at Maple Sands came in Friday and proudly announced that he and Brenda were the proud parents of a 6 1/2 lb. baby girl named Jocelyn Victoria. In the true tradition of resort operators they arranged to wait for their day off in order not to disrupt the schedule. This is their first child and we offer them our very sincere congratulations.

Stephenson and Nicklaus

Keith Stephenson, another of our Chamber Directors and owner of Haliburton Highlands Golf Club just returned from the Canadian Open where he participated in the Pro-Am day. Keith won an entry into the tournament in a draw and then won the honour to play in a foursome with none other than the great Jack Nicklaus. Keith says it was the thrill of a lifetime for him and noted that Milt Donell gave him and the Haliburton Highlands a plug in his Toronto Star column. The tournament was a "best ball" tournament so he couldn't tell us his score, but he was more than satisfied with the day and reports that Nicklaus is just as nice a person as he appears to be.

Convention meeting

It's rather ironic that while it seems like most of Toronto is packed into the Highlands for the long weekend we are heading for the big city. The convention for the Institute of Association Executives is getting underway this holiday Monday and through the grace of the Ministry of Tourism and Recreation we are setting up a display to promote convention and meeting business at our local facilities. The show and reception only takes place on Monday evening but will put us in contact with up to 250 meeting planners in that short time.

The Chamber recognizes that promoting this type of business is important not only to properties that may host the convention or meeting, but to the area as a whole. Every individual who is introduced to the Highlands through attendance at such a get together becomes a far more convinced potential customer for other types of holidays. Some have even said that they bought a cottage in the area after attending a seminar in the Highlands.

Every business in our County has a spin-off effect on others - whether it be good or bad.

QUESTION: "I've misplaced my daughter's immunization record. Where can I obtain a new copy of this information?"

ANSWER: Preschool children's immunization records are available from your family doctor or clinic where immunization was given. Immunization records for students from kindergarten to grade 13 may be obtained from your local Health Unit.

As of September 1982, it will be law that no child may attend school without proof of up-to-date immunization. The exceptions are only on medical or religious grounds.

For further information in Haliburton County contact the Health Unit at 457-1391.

New service

The information centre is

Hustlers could catch leaders

Last Wednesday the Hustlers raised their record to 13-4 by defeating the Lindsay Juniors by the close score of 3-2 in eight innings.

It was a very close game throughout with the Juniors hitting the scoreboard first with a run in the third and another in the fifth to lead two to nothing. In the last of the fifth, the Hustlers came back with one run on a triple by Rick Boucher and a double by Jack Snell.

The Hustlers sent it into extra innings on a home run by Rick Boucher in the bottom of the seventh. The locals won it in the eighth on two walks and two straight singles by Barry Shaw and David Nicholls.

The Hustlers now trail York Tavern who are 16-3 by six points but have two games in hand. They have one game left with the Tavern so could possibly catch first place with a sweep of the remaining four games.

Lindsay Turbo visit the Hustlers this week on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

spot the shot contest

Each week during the summer, we'll publish a photograph, like the one below, of a familiar scene in the Haliburton Highlands. All you have to do is identify the scene and you could win

$20 gift certificate

redeemable at either the Minden or Haliburton

Foodmaster.

The winner will be chosen by lot from all the correct entries received by the closing date. Entries can be dropped off at The Times office Minden, sent to Box 97, Minden or placed in the contest boxes at the Minden or Haliburton Red and White Foodmasters.

There will be a new contest each week, so keep your eyes peeled and try to spot the shot.

Here's an interesting angle of a popular lake in the Haliburton Highlands. Can you spot the shot? Please indicate your name and address on your entry form and mark it contest Number 6. Good Luck!!

— WINNER —

It would appear that contest number four was a lot easier than we had anticipated as we received 31 correct entries to the contest. Unfortunately we can only have one winner, and that individual, selected by lot, was Keith Wallace of Don Mills. The 30 other individuals who recognized the picture as being a scene of Halls Lake adjacent to Highway 35 just north of the Buckslide Road are: Diane Cowen of Haliburton; Doris Stewart; Dean Solway; Brenda McAdam; Mrs. Sandy Cole; Bonnie Holliday and Rosemary Woods; Debbie Reid; Jackie Smith; Cheryl Russell; Greg Alexander; Herb Wilson of Kinmount; Harold F. Scott; Sherry Walker; Susie Wingat; Linda Hamilton; Susan Clift; Mary McKelvey; Paul Marshall; Mary Samson; E. Michalik; Mary Clark; Mrs. Cleo S. Carey of Don Mills; Dennis MacPherson; Karen Stewart; Ruth Chalk; David Phillips; Peter Hynard; Mrs. Jean Sims; Mrs. F. Lindsay; and Bob Minto. Congratulations to our winner and to everyone who took part in the contest.

Paddlers raise money for March of Dimes

The Ontario March of Dimes camping program for disabled is $389 richer this week thanks to the efforts of two Toronto area youths and the support of campers at a local campground.

Rob Beck, 16, of Toronto, and Brent Barton, 16, of Uxbridge, raised the money through a canoeing excursion that took them from Lake Kashagawigamog to Rosedale on Highway 35. They estimate that they travelled over 50 miles.

The two youths and their families are seasonal campers at the Northern Eagle Tent and Trailer Park on Lake Kashagawigamog. It was at the camp office that the two noticed a poster advising that the Ontario Private Campground Association was sponsoring a fund raising drive to assist disabled campers. Funds raised through the association would be turned over to the March of Dimes organization where it would be used to assist disabled individuals who attend a special camp.

"We thought we could help raise some money for these people," Rob commented, "so we decided to try a canoe trip". The pair raised support from seasonal campers at Northern Eagle and were able to obtain pledges of $389.

Last week the two set out from the camp for the two-day trip.

"We left Monday at about 8:30 in the morning," Brent noted, "and paddled until 8:45 in the evening. We followed the Burnt River canoe route." While the boys found the route to be well marked, they had some problems finding the camping sites along the route. "They were poorly marked," Rob noted.

Once their camp was established after a day of paddling, their problems were not over. During the day eggs which they were carrying had broken in the knapsack. Not only did the eggs make a mess, but the smell of the fresh eggs quickly attracted a number of racoons who harassed the two all night.

Having covered more than half the distance in the first day, the pair had an easier time on the second leg of the route, arriving in Rosedale at 6 p.m. Tuesday evening.

They describe the Burnt River canoe route as an interesting one, noting that in many places it cuts through wild countryside. "We saw loons, beaver, muskrat, cranes, the racoons and a monkey along the route," Rob commented. The monkey was not an unknown species which they discovered, Rob Beck and Brent Barton paddled their canoe from Lake Kashagawigamog to Cobocok in an effort to raise close to $400 for the Ontario March of Dimes. The teenagers were assisted in their fund raising efforts by campers at the Northern Eagle Tent and Trailer Park.

but rather a pet which watched the two paddle by from its cage on someone's front lawn.

The route maps called for 14 portages, but because of the low water at the time of the trip, the pair encountered 25 portages or pull-overs.

Rob and Brent used a canoe they had borrowed from a fellow camper, Mr. Bob Whatley.

It was an enjoyable trip for the pair. "We had an interesting time and raised some money for the March of Dimes," Rob pointed out. And while the distance covered, according to a road map is approximately 50 miles, both youths, feeling the strain of the trip, suggested that at the end, "it felt like 100 miles".

Rob and Brent are now considering the possibility of making the trip an annual one, perhaps turning it into a race. "It's just an idea at this point," Brent said, "but it could be a possibility for next year."

Gull Lake regatta results

Cottagers were out in force on the weekend for the Gull Lake Cottagers' Association's annual sailing and swimming regatta. Seventy-five residents from around the lake gathered at the University of Toronto Survey Camp Saturday to take part in the day's activities, which featured competitions for people of all ages in swimming, canoeing and sailing.

The regatta got underway in the morning with a sailing race, which was won after a very close battle by Mr. Balfour in a Laser. The afternoon saw canoeing and swimming races held, and while cloudy skies gave way to a sprinkling of rain in the afternoon, it did nothing to dampen the spirit of those competing.

Gull Lake resident Mrs. Bedlington, who celebrated her 100th birthday last April, was on hand for Saturday's regatta. She had the thrill of seeing the trophy named for her family, the Bedlington Cup, won by her great grandson Chris Sharpe, and the Treadgold Trophy won by her great granddaughter, Kim Sharpe. I intend to stand for council.

(Anson, Hinden & Minden Township)

"190.—(1) The meetings, except meetings of a committee including a committee of the whole, of every council and of every local board as defined by The Municipal Affairs Act, except boards of commissioners of police and school boards, shall be open to the public, and no person shall be excluded therefrom except for improper conduct. R.S.O. 1970, c. 284, s. 190 (1); 1972, c. 1, s. 104 (6).
The Municipal Act of Ontario (REV. 1980)

• Our council HAS barred the public from council's chambers during hours previously committed to a regular meeting of council — with no reason given.

• As a member of council I would propose that:
(1) All meetings of council be announced one week in advance by newspaper advertisement complete with the agenda of topics to be discussed as they are known at that time.

(2) All meetings of committee be held outside of time committed to a meeting of council.

(3) The public be encouraged to attend meetings of council and actively participate in a regularly scheduled discussion period.

It's OUR council. We should feel welcome.

- by Ernie Hills -

The monthly meeting of the Haliburton County Farmers Association consisted of an evening crop tour of various fields and pasture land felt to be of interest to area farmers.

Turnout was light, probably owing to the busy time of haying for those with livestock, however these outings inevitably prove to be an education, as well as a bit of exercise and fresh air (sort-of-like a Participation commercial eh!). For the past couple of years the Association has been monitoring the use of trefoil seed, under different application techniques, upon pasture land at the farm of Mervyn Gilbert. Trefoil has proven to be a durable and valuable forage, applied under the right conditions, on the rough pastureland Haliburton County provides.

Also included in the crop tour were fields of oats and barley at both Terry Blair's and at the Wruth farm. The Blair fields offered an opportunity to see the effective results from the use of a broadcast seeder, as opposed to the traditional seed drill.

At Dwain Wruth's one of the more interesting experiments in the area is underway, with a tiny test study on the potential of growing soybeans locally. It is too early to determine such potential, and indeed it may take several years to come to any accurate conclusions, or reasonable expectations, however such studies are always of value to food producers and illustrate progressive steps in advancing area agriculture.

The crop tour concluded at Tim Casey's, on the original Casey family landholding, where Tim is reclaiming productive land back from the tag-alders. There we again viewed pastureland seeded with trefoil, but of particular interest were the two plots of sweet corn. In addition to the fertility problems of the reclaimed land, a wet June, and cool nights early in July (boy, remember those cool nights early in July!) have made this a disastrous year for corn growers in general, and a disappointment for Tim. Hopefully this last bit of a heatwave will enable some salvaging of the corn crop.

The Haliburton County Farmers Association is pleased to announce its second annual Farm Tour, Saturday, August 28, from 1-4 p.m., at the Wruth farm in Lochlin. Everyone is welcome to attend, admission is free, and if you enjoy any or all aspects of farming, a good time is guaranteed.

This year's farm tour will provide a contrast between the "old fashioned" and the "new fangled", with machinery displays including horse and tractor drawn equipment. There will be a tractor-drawn wagon tour of the Wruth sugar bush, as well as the periodical operation of a threshing machine.

For the animal lovers we are arranging to display a wide variety of livestock, including horses, cattle, sheep, pigs, fowl, and if it can be captured in time - the Haliburton nipper - which occasionally slips into area barns and hides pint bottles of Royal Reserve in the grain bins.

Something for everyone? Surely, with crop and garden tours, and treks to the out-buildings to see what's out in the out-buildings. See you there!

Here is another list of selections now available to you from Minden Library.

Juvenile fiction

Title: Garden Railway. Author: Kathleen Mackenzie.

When Peter found a box of old engines and railway lines in the attic of a house which his parents had inherited, he planned to put the whole set up. The only place for this was in the garden. There were some problems but read this to find what happened.

Juvenile non-fiction

Title: All Times All Peoples. Author: M. Meltzer, 306.3.

This book gives the history of slavery down through the ages and even tells of conditions today. Might be a good book for a project.

Adult fiction

Title: Messenger From Munich. Author: Noel Pierce.

A would-be assassin, the agent assigned to destroy him, and the agent's beautiful discontented wife are drawn into a deadly triangle of love, restless lust, and obsessive pursuit in this riveting tale of the pursuer pursued set in Yorkville and in New York's exclusive East side.

Felicia Schuyler, a young, lovely woman deeply in love with her husband, Rob, worries over the widening rift in their marriage caused by his work as an FBI agent: the not knowing when - or even if - he'll come home at night; the necessity of his being perpetually on guard with her to protect her from the violent side of his life. Otherwise, cocooned by Felicia's inherited wealth, they lead the comfortable life of New York's affluent young marrieds and Felicia's fidelity - is put to the test.

Rob is given a top assignment: track the vicious neo-Nazi assassin Baron von Gottfried before he gets his American targets - a renowned justice of the Nuremberg War Crimes trials and an ex-ambassador, who is, ironically, Felicia's grandfather. She sees an opportunity to involve herself in Rob's world. But Felicia is entirely unprepared for the magnetism of von Gottfried - an animal attraction so dark and dangerous that it traps all three in a vicious nightmare of pursuit and counterpursuit where a momentary lapse in vigilance means certain death. An arresting novel of sinister obsession, in the manner of Helen MacInnes, Messenger From Munich marks an auspicious debut.

Adult non-fiction

Title: Early Canadian Glass. Author: Gerald Stevens, 748.291.

That old glass pitcher, sugar bowl or lamp you were going to give to the Rummage Sale could be valuable. Read this book and find out what year and where in Ontario or one of the other provinces it has been made.

We went for a bus ride to Stanhope Fun Day. We had a driver by the way, one Carl Wallace. We didn't know what might befall us, if he happened the wrong gears to switch - why we might all land down in the ditch. He brought his lovely wife along; which was just fine. She watched that he didn't cross over that centre line. The Parkers, and Linda came along to keep us in our place - keep out of mischief, and save us from disgrace. We got there safely, and were treated royally to a lovely lunch, and a nice cup of tea. We met some dear old friends that we were glad to see. One word about Carl, who drove the bus for us. Why he was almost as good as our very own Doris.

Speaking of Doris - she spent the weekend at a Blue Grass Do, thought she would come on Monday feeling kinder blue. But she came marching, wasn't even late, and said the time she had was simply great.

Watched three movies Monday night. They sure were the best - "Canoeing Down the Churchill" to see the big friendly thirty-mile horse contest.

Service in the Chapel this Sunday. Mrs. Thompson came to sing and play. Harold read the lesson, and lead in prayer. Rev. Burgess took over from there, and spoke on the subject "The Lord said, If you love me, you should love one another" - a very interesting message.

Lieutenant Buell of the Salvation Army Haliburton took the service here this Tuesday morning. He took his text from the twelfth chapter of second Corinthians. "And he said unto me, my grace is sufficient for Thee." We thank him for coming.

Fred Ballard came on Tuesday night and played some good old tunes for us. Fred always comes to the job without a bit of fuss.

Doris took us in the bus in the Rotary parade. We had Indians and a nice tee-pee. We thought we had it made, but Thursday morning this message they did bring. "Sorry to report to you, you didn't win a thing." Well the most of us took this very calm, but Big Indian Chief he say "Damn".

The ladies from Club 35 of Around Hall's Lake brought a lovely lunch on Thursday, and served it so nicely, but said they couldn't stay. They also brought us in a Birthday Cake and I will tell you why - for those who had birthdays in the month of July.

Our deepest sympathy goes to Mrs. Avery in the loss of her son.

Doris took some residents in the bus to Haliburton's Rails' End Gallery, on this July day. They saw some real nice paintings, and didn't have to pay. They took a lunch along to eat in the park, and were back here again long before dark.

It was sing-song time again. Grace and Norma came. Now here's a couple of gals that are really always game. Grace had lead us in a sing song, and some lovely solos. What we would do without these gals, goodness only knows.

The tides of Fortune rise and fall.

True friendship carries on through all.

Though we may change from year to year,

Real friendship stays forever dear.

The Agnes Jamieson Gallery has a very interesting exhibit on display - this week only - of twenty local artists, artists within a 15 mile radius of Minden. Following this show and beginning August 10 the Gallery hopes to have an exhibition which will be of special interest. The theme is As It Was Then and will be based on memorabilia of Minden and Vicinity around the turn of the century and mementos of places and things which are not there anymore. IN MEMORIAM

WALKER: In loving memory of a dear son, Derek Walker, who passed away August 5, 1978.

No farewells were spoken
No time to say goodbye
You were gone before we knew
But God alone knows why.

Secret tears still flow
For what it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
